

Mondomusica New York
The Finest American Exhibition for International Violin Making is Returning to New York April 10-12, 2014

We are pleased to announce that the second annual Mondomusica New York will be back in New York on April 10-12 2014 as they occupy the beautiful spaces of 82 Mercer in SoHo, New York. Mondomusica New York is looking forward to returning to New York to promote the very finest in contemporary violin making to the US market.

Mondomusica New York is a large string-instrument Trade Show Exhibition that hosts violin makers from around the world in a unique setting that allows attendees to not only purchase instruments and accessories, but also attend concerts, lectures, seminars and cultural events. Mondomusica New York is specifically conceived for the U.S. audience and market, mirroring the world's prominent Cremona Mondomusica event, which takes place in Cremona, Italy, the birthplace of violin making tradition.

Last year, for the first time, Mondomusica New York made its debut in New York, bringing together 164 exhibitors from 14 different countries. It was the first exhibition of its kind to bring such a large number of highly qualified international master violin-makers to the U.S., and over 2,500 violin-making professionals.

The exhibit attracts highly qualified professionals from all areas of the music industry including musicians, instrument makers, distributors, dealers and buyers, music teachers and students, and collectors and investors. New York's accessibility combined with an excellent selection of exhibitors, matched with an exciting events program make Mondomusica New York an important industry event. Mondomusica New York is currently cultivating new exhibitors for the April 10-12 2014 show.
