

Mondomusica New York 2014 Announces a Rich Program of Cultural, Artistic, and Practical events.

Mondomusica New York, the finest American exhibition for violin and string-instrument making, is much more than a trade show. The event, which will be held from April 10-12 at 82 Mercer in Manhattan, also offers an extensive program of lectures and seminars for the music community at large, targeting performers, string-instrument makers, members of the music industry, as well as music enthusiasts.

This year, Mondomusica New York is proud to announce the following seminars:

- 1. The Creation of Sound: A discussion on the collaboration between a violinist and a violin-maker in the process of instrument making by Sam Zygmuntowicz
- 2. How to Tackle the Instruments and Raw Materials Transportation Issues
- 3. Health and Wellness for Musicians by Dr. John Chong and Dr. Shmuel Tatz
- 4. The Bows of Eugene Sartory by Isaac Salchow
- 5. The Origins of the Violin by Philip J. Kass
- 6. Violin donation and concert by the students of Opus118 - Harlem School of Music

These seminars will be part of a much larger series of lectures and events offered to Mondomusica New York attendees.

Mondomusica New York is a large string-instrument trade show exhibition that hosts violin and string instrument makers from around the world in a unique setting that allows attendees to not only purchase instruments and accessories, but also attend lectures, seminars and cultural events. Mondomusica New York is specifically conceived for the U.S. audience and market, mirroring the world's prominent Mondomusica event, which takes place in Cremona Italy, the birthplace of violin making tradition. Cremona, one of the most artistically and rich areas in Italy located in the Lombardy region, is known for its musical history and tradition including some of the earliest and most renowned luthiers such as Guarneri and Stradivari and several members of the Amati family.

Mondomusica New York will be held at 82 Mercer in Manhattan from April 10-12, 2014.

More information: www.mondomusicanewyork.com